

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ## INTRODUCTION

After many delays this handbook is finally ready for distribution. It is hoped that this volume may prove of interest and value to the members of the University of Pennsylvania Chapter and to the  $\Phi$  B K Society at large. Scholarship and character, expressing themselves through service, loyalty and sacrifice, are indispensable to a true  $\Phi$  B K spirit, and it has been the constant aim of this Chapter to make worthy contributions to the spiritual life of the University. Members of the  $\Phi$  B K Chapter are sons of the University who owe their Alma Mater special obligation. It is our hope that the near future may secure us a hearth and a home, where comradeship may warm the intellectual and ethical aspirations that belong to the Chapter as a heritage and as a present possession.

The Editor is indebted to The University of Pennsylvania Alumni Society, The American Philosophical Society, The Historical Society of Pennsylvania for permission to consult their records.

Provost Edgar Fahs Smith, Vice Provost Josiah H. Penniman and Mr. George E. Nitzsche (Recorder) have put the Editor under obligation by securing him access to University records and by giving him information not otherwise obtainable.

It is hoped that the data included in the lists of names may prove to be quite free from error. Corrections will be gratefully received.

GEORGE DEPUE HADZSITS.

A HISTORY OF PHI BETA KAPPA

At least a brief history of Phi Beta Kappa ought to appear in every Chapter Handbook.

Founded in December of 1776 at William and Mary College, Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest College fraternity in the United States. We have the records of the first meeting, which was held on Thursday, the fifth day of December, and was attended by five students. Of these John Heath is regarded as the real founder of the Society. At the time there existed at William and Mary College another society which had come to be noted for conviviality and dissipation. John Heath enjoyed a great reputation as a Hellenist; he established the Phi Beta Kappa in opposition to the older, existent organization and one of its early rules heavily penalized and therefore discouraged intoxication. "Honor, probity and good demeanor" were required of its members. The meetings of the parent society were literary and social in character and according to tradition the first meeting of the fraternity was held in the Apollo room of the Raleigh Tavern. Records tell of the character of these meetings, when "the night was" innocently "spent in Jollity and Mirth." Debates were conducted on such questions, as: "Whether Brutus was Justifyable in Killing Caesar," "Whether the Execution of Charles the First was Justifyable," "Whether a general Assessment for the support of Religious Establishments is repugnant to the principles of a Republican Government," "Is Public or Private Education more Advantageous?" etc. It has been suggested that this aspect of the early Phi Beta Kappa life was due to the philosophic clubs then in existence among the collegiate students in France and on the continent. It certainly seems clear that the founders of the fraternity believed that the scholar should enter politics.

The secret fraternity idea was jealously cultivated by the parent chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the Alpha of Virginia: the chapter had its grip, seal, its token of salutation and society colors; emphasis was laid upon the mystery of secrecy, upon an initiation ceremony, an oath of fealty and the requirement of unanimous election; a badge was devised for external display and the ambition early manifested itself to make the Fraternity, national, by organization of chapters in each of the United States.

In January of 1777, a mode of initiation was reported:

“And first in corporation, an oath of fidelity being considered as the strongest preservative, an initiation was accordingly resolved upon and instituted as follows:

I, A. B., do swear on the holy Evangelists of Almighty God, or otherwise, as calling the Supreme Being to attest this my oath, declaring that I will, with all my possible efforts, endeavor to prove true, just and deeply attached to this our growing fraternity; in keeping, holding, and preserving all secrets that pertain to my duty, and for the promotion and advancement of its internal welfare.”

On February 27, 1779, a ritual* that was quite elaborate and couched in quaint language, was adopted. The ritual of the chapter of the University of Pennsylvania retains many phrases and all of the essential ideas of this earliest ritual. Friendship, virtue and love of literature appear to be the foundations of the fraternity structure. The record book of the Alpha of Virginia describes the first medal, as a square, silver one, adopted “for the better establishment and sanctitude of our unanimity, . . . engraved on the one side with S. P., the initials of S—— P——, and on the other, agreeable to the former, with the Greek initials of Phi Beta Kappa, and an index imparting a philosophical design, extended to the three stars," the symbol of high aspirations. The Greek letters stand for the motto of the society, Φιλοσοφία Βίου Κυβερνήτης.* As for the meaning of S. P., let me quote a letter of Senator E. A. Birge, under date of March 23, 1908, addressed to Professor F. W. Shepardson, of the University of Chicago: "The words S. P. on the Phi Beta Kappa badge mean, either 'Societas Philosophica' or 'Societas Philosophiae.' So far as the original manuscript goes, there is nothing which will enable one to decide between the two forms. I was disposed to accept the first, but I am informed that the traditions of the William and Mary Chapter are in favor of the second, and, in absence of definite evidence, I think that this tradition should control." The minutes of December 9, 1779, contain the resolution granting authority for the establishment of the Yale chapter and this statement appears: "Whereas this Society is desirous that the Phi Beta Kappa should be extended to each of the United States; Resolved: That a second charter be granted to our brother, Mr. Elisha Parmele, for establishing a meeting of the same in the College of New Haven, in Connecticut, to be of the same rank, to have the same power, and to enjoy the same privileges with that which he is empowered to fix in the University of Cambridge."

The Beta, Gamma and Delta chapters, or "meetings" as they were then called, were organized in neighboring Virginia towns, but little is known of their activities. Charters were voted to Harvard and Yale on December 4th and 9th, respectively, 1779. They were to be carried to Cambridge and New Haven by Elisha Parmele, a graduate of Harvard of the class of 1778, but in Virginia, at the College of William and Mary, in 1779 and 1780; he was given authority to establish these two chapters in the New England States. In the grant to Harvard the following paragraph appears and it clearly indicates the serious purpose of the fraternity:

*It seems to me very possible that the motto was inspired by the text of Cicero's Tusculan Disputations, V. 2, 5: O vitæ philosophia dux, o virtutis indagatrix expultrixque vitiorum! quid non modo nos, sed omnino vita hominum sine te esse potuisset? etc.

“That the Governing Rule of your conduct and that of the Society be to further and promote the fundamental principles and maxims of the Phi Beta Kappa to the best of your Knowledge; and above all you are to be careful to promote friendship and union among one another, as well as to bring it forth in a Communion with us here, so far as it may be practicable and convenient.”

Mr. Parmele initiated the men who became the nucleus for the Yale chapter and it was established, November 13, 1780. The Harvard Society was founded in July, 1781. The Harvard charter contains the following resolution:

“Whereas it is repugnant to the liberal principles of Societies, that they should be confined to any particular place, men or Description of men, and as the same should be extended to the wise & virtuous of every degree, and of whatever Country;” etc.

These two chapters in turn organized the Dartmouth chapter, August 20, 1787, and these three Alphas of Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire comprised the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity for thirty years, for in the meantime, on Saturday, January 6, 1781, the parent chapter had disbanded when the British fleet under Benedict Arnold approached the Virginia coast.

“1781. On Saturday, the 6th of January, a meeting of  $\Phi$  B K was called for the purpose of securing the papers of the Society during the confusion of the times, and the present dissolution which threatens the University.

"The members who attended were William Short, Daniel C. Brent, Spencer Roane, Peyton Short and Landon Cabell. They, thinking it most advisable that the papers should not be removed, determined to deliver them sealed into the hands of the College Steward, to remain with him until the desirable event of the Society's resurrection. And this deposit they make in the sure and certain hope that the Fraternity will one day rise to life everlasting and glory immortal." (From minutes of June 6, 1781.)

How far this hope has been realized the present list of Phi Beta Kappa chapters will in a measure indicate:

In the years 1798-1799 the New Haven chapter made the suggestion that Phi Beta Kappa should be abolished because of the "suspicion to which all secret societies are liable in the present dangerous and critical situation of the country." Surviving this storm, the next great incident in the history of Phi Beta Kappa was due to the episode of William Morgan and the anti-Masonic excitement in the early thirties. Dartmouth had abolished secrecy in 1826, but the appearance of a volume in 1831 by a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Mr. Avery Allyn, had far-reaching results. This volume was entitled: "Ritual of Freemasonry, to which is added a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, the Orange and Odd Fellows societies, with notes." The book gave to the world the motto of Phi Beta Kappa and revealed its meaning. "Philosophy," it said, "has been the watchword of infidels in every age, and by its learned and enchanting sound many unwary youths have been led to reject the only sure guide to heaven." The inevitable consequence of the agitation was a profound change in the character of Phi Beta Kappa and its gradual evolution into a fraternity of scholarship. This change had become quite complete in all of the existing chapters by 1840, so that at the present time, observing no distinctions of race, color, creed or sex, the society is properly recognized as the chief "conserver and rewarder of scholastic attainments" in our American Colleges and Universities.

Until the organization of the "United Chapters," the Alpha chapter in any one state had the power to grant charters to institutions within that state, while new chapters were organized in states not previously represented only by consent of all existing Alphas. In 1881, the Alpha of Massachusetts invited all chapters to join in the celebration of its one-hundredth anniversary and organize a closer union of chapters. The result of the convention and several subsequent deliberations was the organization of The United Chapters, which held their first National Council in 1883. Triennials have been held every three years since; the last triennial met in Philadelphia, September 12, 13, 1916.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF THE UNITED CHAPTERS

CONSTITUTION

---

ARTICLE I.

COMPOSITION OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL.

The National Council of the Phi Beta Kappa Society shall consist of the Senators hereinafter spoken of, and of delegates from the several Chapters of the Society. Each Chapter shall be entitled to send three delegates, who shall be graduates of at least five years' standing and members of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, but not necessarily of the Chapter by which they are chosen.

ARTICLE II.

THE SENATE.

The Senate shall originally consist of twenty Senators, chosen by the delegates at the first session of the National Council, from the Society at large. These shall be divided into two classes, whose terms of office shall expire at the adjournment of alternate regular sessions of the National Council. At every subsequent regular session the places of the outgoing class shall be filled by election as follows: On the day preceding the first day of each regular session of the National Council, the Senate shall meet, and shall nominate fifteen candidates in addition to the members of the outgoing class for the ten vacant seats, and also two candidates for the unexpired term of each Senator who may have died or resigned since the last regular session. Other persons not nominated by the Senate may be presented as candidates at the time of the election. Of every ten members whose term of office shall expire, one may be elected by the Council Senator for life. In every election of Senators a majority of the votes cast shall be required to elect, and in such elections the outgoing Senators shall have no vote. The Senate may fill vacancies in its own body till the next meeting of the National Council.

ARTICLE III.

OFFICERS OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL.

The officers of the National Council shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer, and such others as may be found necessary from time to time. The President shall be chosen from among the Senators.

ARTICLE IV.

SESSIONS AND FUNCTIONS OF THE COUNCIL.

The National Council shall meet every third year at such place and time as shall have been determined by the officers of the United Chapters, and shall proceed at once to the election first of its officers and next of the Senators. The National Council shall make such rules as may be found necessary for the carrying out of any provision of this Constitution.

ARTICLE V.

THE SENATE AND ITS FUNCTIONS.

During the session of the National Council the Senate shall have no separate existence, but its members shall take their places with the delegates as members of the National Council, voting with the delegates, as well upon all other matters as upon the election of Officers and Senators, except as provided in Article II. When the National Council is not in session the Senate shall constitute an independent body, charged with the duty of representing the Phi Beta Kappa Society and speaking in its name, and exercising, in addition, the functions of a permanent Executive Committee of the National Council. It shall hold its meetings at such times and places as it shall determine, being first called together by that Senator, who, at the original election of the Senate, shall have been elected by the largest number of votes. It shall recommend candidates for election as Senators. It shall also have power to call an extra session of the National Council. It shall furthermore prepare and recommend to the consideration of the National Council such matters as it may deem proper. It shall transmit its lists of candidates and of matters recommended for discussion, by the hands of the secretary, to the presiding officer of the National Council, immediately upon its organization being completed. It shall also transmit, in the same manner, to the National Council, a report of its doings between the sessions of the Council. Nothing herein shall be so construed as to derogate from the right of the National Council to appoint Committees to sit between sessions, independently of the Senate, and to report at the next session.

ARTICLE VI.

NEW CHARTERS.

Application for charters shall, in all cases, be made to the Senate, at least six months before the regular session of the National Council; the Senate shall at once notify all the chapters of such applications, and such applications shall be reported to the National Council with the recommendation of the Senate at the next meeting of the Council, and shall be passed upon by the Council, which shall have exclusive power to grant charters. But no charters shall be issued without the consent of delegations representing a majority of the chapters.

ARTICLE VII.

BY-LAWS AND RULES OF ORDER.

The National Council at any of its sessions, and the Senate at any time, may respectively make such By-Laws and Rules of Order as may be thought expedient for their use, provided the same be not inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Constitution. A quorum of the National Council shall consist of delegates from a majority of the chapters and not fewer than three Senators; the Senate shall determine the number which shall constitute a quorum. (The present number is five.)

ARTICLE VIII.

RIGHTS OF CHAPTERS.

Nothing contained in this constitution shall be construed as empowering the Senate or the National Council to restrict or abridge the rights or privileges now exercised by existing Chapters, except as expressly provided herein.

ARTICLE IX.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.

No change shall be made in this Constitution unless the same shall have been proposed at the session of the National Council next preceding the session at which the proposed change is voted for; and no vote shall be had upon any such proposed change except at a stated hour previously ordered by the meeting, and no amendment shall be made without the concurrence of the delegations of two-thirds of the Chapters represented in the Council.

ARTICLE X.

ADOPTION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

This Constitution shall take effect when ratified by fourteen Chapters. (Sixteen chapters ratified it before July, 1883.)

BY-LAWS

I. ELECTIONS AND OFFICERS.

All elections shall be by ballot. The President shall preside over the meetings of the Council. In his absence the Vice-President shall perform his duties. When both are absent a president pro tempore shall be chosen viva voce. The Secretary shall keep the records of the Council, conduct its correspondence, and send to the Senate and to each chapter a certified report of the proceedings of each session. The Treasurer shall collect and disburse all funds of the Council, and report at each session thereof. (At the Council of 1892, the treasurer requested that the financial report be submitted to an auditor appointed by the president after its presentation.)

II. ORDER OF BUSINESS.

1. Calling the Roll.
2. Reading the minutes.
3. Reports of officers.
4. Communication from the Senate on nominations.
5. Election of officers.
6. Election of senators.
7. Communications from the Senate on new chapters and other matters.
8. Miscellaneous business.

III. VOTING.

In all cases not otherwise provided for by the Constitution each Senator and delegate present shall be entitled to cast one vote. (In establishing new chapters the Constitution requires a vote by delegations, each delegation having one vote.)

IV. REGISTRATION AND ASSESSMENT.

Each chapter shall report promptly to the secretary the names of all persons elected to membership. Such report shall contain the information called for by the secretary and shall be made on forms furnished by him.

Each chapter shall pay the sum of $1 to the treasurer for each person elected to membership of any type except associate members. No chapter shall pay an amount less than $10 for any triennium.

Each new member so reported with the accompanying fee of $1 shall be entitled to receive the Phi Beta Kappa Key for the term of one year, provided there is furnished an address to which The Key may be sent. The Key shall be sent for three years to each new member for whom the sum of $1.50 shall be sent to the treasurer with the announcement of his election.

V. PROCEDURE.

The proceedings of the Council, in all cases not provided for in the constitution, or the by-laws, shall conform to the rules laid down in Cushing's Manual.

VI. ENDORSEMENT OF NEW CHAPTERS.

All applications for future charters shall have the endorsement of at least five existing chapters prior to presentation to the Senate. No charter shall be issued until those applying for the same have paid to the Treasurer of the National Council $50 as a franchise fee.

VII. AMENDMENTS.

These by-laws, or any of them, may be suspended, altered or amended at any meeting of the Council by a two-thirds vote of the members of the Council present and voting.

CHAPTER CONSTITUTION

[Required by the Charter.]

I. This society is one of the co-ordinate branches of the body known as The United Chapters of the Phi Beta Kappa and shall be called the

.....
Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa society in the State of
.....

II. The object of the Phi Beta Kappa society is the promotion of scholarship and friendship among students and graduates of American Colleges.

III. The members of the Chapter shall be elected primarily from the best scholars of the graduating classes of the college, secondly from those graduates of said college whose post-graduate work entitles them to such honor, and lastly from any persons distinguished in letters, science or education; provided however that the selection from each graduating class shall not exceed one-fourth of the number graduated. But the Chapter may make further limitations or restrictions.

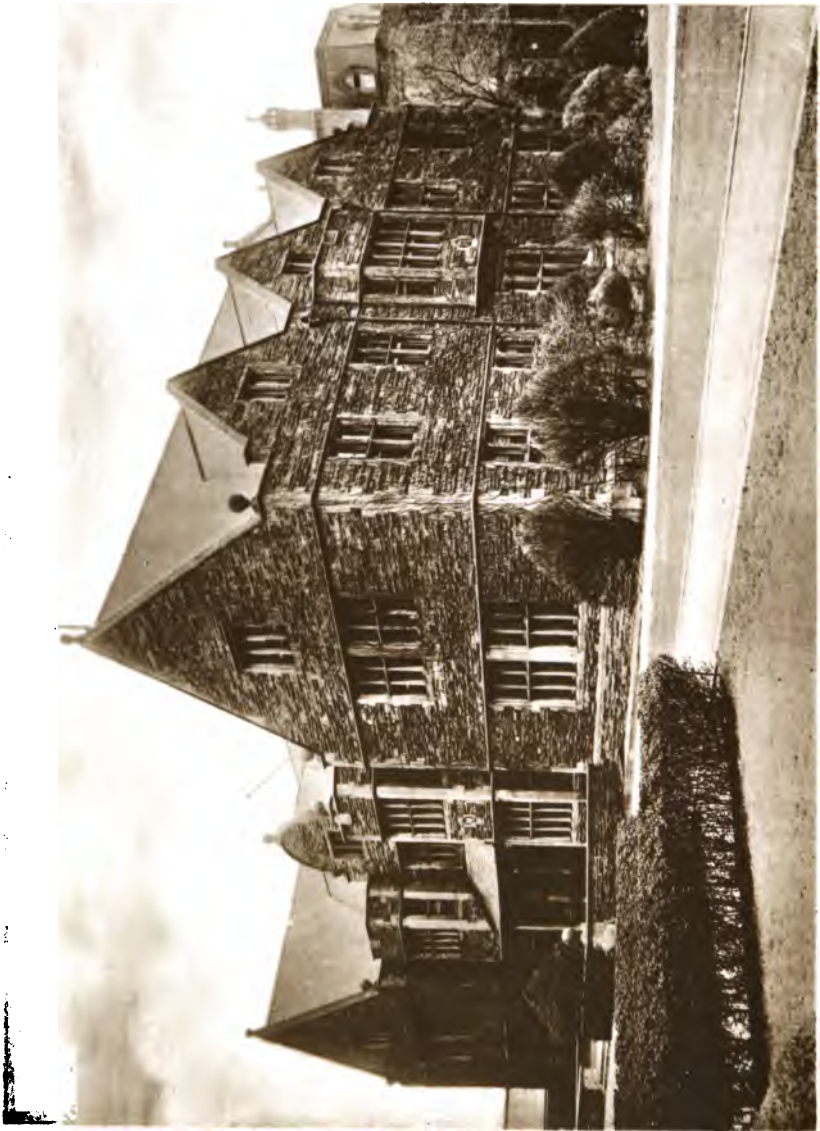

IV. In addition to scholarship, good moral character shall be a qualification of membership, and any member who is found to have lost this qualification may be expelled from the society by a four-fifths vote of the members present at a regular annual meeting of the society.

V. This Chapter shall send a delegation to represent it at each National Council of the United Chapters, shall contribute its equal part to the financial support of the United Chapters, and shall conform to the constitution of the United Chapters and all the lawful requirements of the National Council.

VI. This Chapter shall, by the enactment of suitable by-laws, provide for its election of officers, the initiation of members, the conduct of its meetings, and for such other matters as it may deem wise so to regulate.

CHARTER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DELTA

CHARTER OF PHI BETA KAPPA

UNITED CHAPTERS.

To

*William Henry Furness,
Stephen Winchester Dana,
George Egbert Fisher,*

Brethren of the Phi Beta Kappa—GREETING:

WHEREAS the National Council of the United Chapters of the Phi Beta Kappa Society has by resolution duly adopted on the 17th day of September, 1892 decreed the establishment of a Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa in connection with The University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia and has directed the Senate by the President and Secretary to issue a charter in the name of the National Council:—Now, therefore, by virtue of the aforesaid act of the Council and the authority delegated to us, we do hereby incorporate and establish you and such others as you may hereafter elect and associate with yourselves, in conformity to the law of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, into a separate and subordinate branch of said society to be known and called the Delta Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa in the state of Pennsylvania; hereby granting unto you and your successors all the powers, privileges, and benefits thereunto appertaining, in as full and ample a measure as the brethren of the other and existing chapters enjoy; at the same time enjoining upon you in the organization and conduct of the new chapter, and as a condition upon which this charter is granted, strict compliance with the Constitution of the United Chapters and the Model Constitution herewith transmitted to you.

In witness whereof the said Senate has caused the seal of the United Chapters of the Phi Beta Kappa to be affixed hereto, with the signatures of the President and the Secretary.

Col. Thomas W. Higginson,
PRESIDENT.

Rev. Eben B. Parsons,
SECRETARY.

The original copy of our Charter appears to be lost. This form was kindly sent us by Secretary Voorhees, and I have made the necessary insertions. At least the form that was used may be apparent to us.

HISTORY OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DELTA

I. THE UNIVERSITY

In the October 1916 number of THE KEY appears a brief sketch of the earlier history of the University. That history falls into two great chapters, from 1740 to 1802 and from 1802 to 1872, replete with the most interesting developments. Benjamin Franklin's dream was of a "perfect institution"; and in a memorable charge to the graduates at the Commencement of 1771 Provost William Smith laid upon his auditors a counsel of "perfection" that has not been forgotten even in these remote latter days. From the past come echoes of earlier striving, of gradual and careful growth upward into ever larger service that remain an abiding inspiration for all who share in the destiny of the present great University. Before 1802 the foundations were built firm and strong; the "Middle Ages" from 1800 to 1850 upon a new site beheld important extensions in curricula; there followed a great awakening after 1850 leading to the third vital stage in the University's growth when the present site upon the banks of the Schuylkill was occupied. It is the development since 1872 that is our more particular concern at this time, since it was in 1892 that Phi Beta Kappa came into the life of the greater University which had grown so rapidly that this expansion must remain one of the amazing phenomena in America's educational history. The account of the chapter's history that follows will clearly show that the chapter from the beginning took itself seriously and has ever since regarded itself as an integral part of the University's intellectual life. Charles Janeway

Stillé was Provost from 1868 to 1880, bringing a new life and vitality to the University, which entered upon a new career in 1872, when College Hall in West Philadelphia was first occupied. This handsome building of green serpentine stone was the nucleus of a group of four buildings that were sufficient for the University's immediate needs. While these beginnings of the new era were in themselves modest enough, they carried with them a capacity for development amply realized in the following years. The Arts department, the Towne Scientific School of Engineering, the Medical work and the Law course made up the University to whose Provostship Dr. William Pepper succeeded in 1881, carrying the responsibilities of his high office with dignity, with foresight, and with genius, until 1894. Inaugurated on the 22nd of February, 1881, the new Provost's mind reverted to the days of Franklin and of Washington even while he looked forward into the future that was so rich with possibilities. The versatility of Dr. Pepper was ever on the alert to grasp the opportunities that lay before the University, and the variety of his achievements for the University shows the liberality of his mind. The four buildings of 1881 were but the heralds of the twenty-two in existence in 1894. The life of the University had suddenly grown strangely manifold and complex; there was specialized instruction in many different directions; a veritable revolution had taken place with the birth of so many new aspects of the University life: the Wharton School, the Graduate School, the great University Library, the Museum with its expeditions into Babylonia, the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology, the opening of the Graduate work to women, the development of "University Extension" in Philadelphia, the Architectural Department, the founding of the "American Academy of Political and Social Science," the formation of the "Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools," are among the accomplishments of this amazing administration. It was into this milieu that the Phi Beta Kappa came in 1892, and it is inspiring to read the record of cordial welcome extended to the young chapter by Provost Pepper in his participation in its first undertakings. When Dr. Charles Custis Harrison assumed control, Phi Beta Kappa was young, but the new Provost, creating an even greater environment than the heritage left to him by his predecessors, influenced and lifted upward Phi Beta Kappa with all the other interrelated academic, social, and scholarly interests that made up the totality of University activity. Under his administration the University attained to the dignity of more than seventy buildings, as e. g., Houston Hall, the Harrison Laboratory of Chemistry, the Laboratory of Physics, the Engineering Building, the Law School Building, the Dental Hall, the Gymnasium and Stadium, the Flower Astronomical Observatory, the splendid dormitory system, the new Zoological Laboratory, new Medical laboratories and additions to the Hospital. At the same time came the inauguration of the Summer School, the beginnings of the College Courses for Teachers, the magnificent endowment of fellowships, scholarships, and professorships and other proofs of an evolution that carried the perfected University of Pennsylvania far beyond the dreams of the founders. It must have been with the deepest pride that the Provost surveyed the results of his skillful administration, which in 1911 passed into the hands of his successor, Provost Edgar Fahs Smith. This former remarkable progress has been more than sustained and more than ever the University has become a university for all the people: the extramural courses, the School of Education, the institution of Schoolmen's Week, the Free Public Lectures given by members of the faculty on Saturday afternoons throughout the academic year, all tend to bring the University into ever closer relations with a constantly wider and larger constituency. Besides, the Thomas W. Evans Dental Institute has been erected and the Medico-Chirurgical College has been merged in the University; the new Surgical Pavilion is approaching completion. The Provost has been called the "beloved Provost"; and it is quite true that the personal esteem that such a title of honor and affection implies, is of the utmost importance in the present critical stage, anticipating that age of greater synthesis which is impending for all American education. The proposed Chapel, the prospective Graduate School building and the projected new Auditorium will be concrete factors in that next stage of evolution.* Three buildings, however, are of special consequence to Phi Beta Kappa at present and with these three,—College Hall, the Library and Houston Hall,—Phi Beta Kappa has her chief associations. College Hall bears the tablets of many graduating classes; in all of these Phi Beta Kappa claims deep interest because of her share in such successive graduating classes since 1892. Phi Beta Kappa's undergraduate members have all been elected within this old building of many associations, and the College is Phi Beta Kappa's true home, as it was there that in January, 1893, the first meeting of the Charter and Constituting members was held. Houston Hall, the students' Club House, a graceful memorial in gray stone to the memory of a departed son of Pennsylvania, has naturally become the gathering place for many Phi Beta Kappa meetings; in all three of these buildings, College Hall, Houston Hall, and

II. THE CHAPTER

At the fourth council of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, held at Saratoga, N. Y., on Wednesday, September 7, 1892, by a unanimous vote a charter was granted to the Delta Chapter of Pennsylvania, to be instituted at the University of Pennsylvania. Delegates from nineteen chapters were present and at the same Council Tufts College and the University of Minnesota were similarly honored by the grant of charters. Colonel T. W. Higginson was president of the United Chapters at the time. The action of the Council was the result of the efforts of Professor George Egbert Fisher, of the University, a member of the Theta of New York at Cornell, who with the Rev. Dr. William H. Furness, of the Alpha Chapter of Massachusetts, Harvard 1820, and the Rev. Stephen W. Dana, D.D., Gamma of Massachusetts, Williams 1861, became the Charter members of the local chapter. It was in December of 1892 that the first steps were taken looking toward the inauguration of Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Pennsylvania. The charter members, Drs. Dana, Fisher, and Furness, assumed the responsibilities incident to this important movement. They associated with themselves as Constituting members, Provost William Pepper, Vice-Provost E. Otis Kendall, Dean Horace Jayne, Professors F. A. Jackson, W. A. Lambertson, E. F. Smith, George S. Fullerton, F. E. Schelling, and E. P. Cheyney. These twelve gentlemen at once took an active hold and gave the prospective organization the distinction and the impulse that were sure guarantors of its future place of usefulness in the rapidly developing collegiate life. In January of 1893, the first meeting of these sponsors of Phi Beta Kappa was held, and they appointed Professor Fisher chairman of a committee to draw up a constitution and elected Professor Fullerton chairman of another committee to draw up a list of eligible honorary members and a second list of distinguished graduates of Pennsylvania from whose numbers members might be elected. These committees evidently acted with most commendable promptness; for the records state the adoption of the Constitution in the following month of February and the election of ninety-six graduates to membership in the month of March. This list of names contains many already at that time famous in the annals of science, medicine, law, theology, and literature,—all of them graduates of the University of the preceding sixty years. It was upon these foundations that Phi Beta Kappa was established at the University of Pennsylvania under auspices that were most favorable.

On the twenty-first of April, 1893, the organization meeting was held at the University Club and the first officers elected were: President, Dr. W. H. Furness; Vice-President, Dr. Horace Jayne; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. George Egbert Fisher. Eight other graduates were elected into graduate or alumni membership, bringing this number to a total of 104. At this meeting, too, six names were inscribed upon the honorary membership roll, which now includes fifty-five distinguished names. With the reading and approval of the Constitution and the acceptance of five recently elected undergraduates (Seniors), the Delta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Pennsylvania was fairly under way. The records of its twenty-five years of active existence show a history of gradually growing strength, of increasing influence, of high hopes and ideals, of many embarrassments which merely gave further incentive to its officers, and of many notable achievements. Its history is woven into the history of the last twenty-five years of the University, and its history and its ambitions are become one with those of the University of Pennsylvania. In its twenty-five years, the Delta Chapter has elected 201 undergraduates from the College—who maintain an active interest in the chapter's numerous plans and activities inspired by Phi Beta Kappa ideals of scholarship, morality, and friendship.

TRIENNIALS.

At the first opportunity granted this chapter it sent its quota of three delegates to attend the Fifth National Council of the United Chapters, meeting in Saratoga in September of 1895. The delegates to whom this honor fell were Judge John Marshall Gest and Professors G. E. Fisher and W. A. Lamberton. This Council was attended by delegates from twenty-six chapters and Bishop Henry C. Potter was elected president. It is agreeable to note that the University of Pennsylvania was in a position to assist the application for a charter from a neighboring college and thus aided Swarthmore to enter the ranks of Phi Beta Kappa colleges. The tradition established in 1895 of attendance at the National Council has all but remained unbroken and the Delta Chapter has been represented at every subsequent Triennial except one. In 1898 the delegates were Dr. J. G. Rosengarten, the Rev. W. H. Falkner, and Ellis Y. Brown, Esq.; in 1901, Messrs. Ellis Y. Brown, John Cadwalader, and Walter George Smith; in 1907, Hon. Henry Brown, Professor J. B. Kieffer, and Mr. E. W. Chadwick; in 1910, Professors Thomas Nolan and H. C. Richards; in 1913, Mr. Harold

Goodwin, Professor H. C. Richards, and Dr. G. D. Hadzsits; in 1916, Professor H. C. Richards, Dr. G. D. Hadzsits, and Judge John Marshall Gest, whose place Professor E. S. Crawley took as alternate. This fine record does not tell of the influence exerted by the Pennsylvania Delta Chapter upon the National organization, but that influence at the Triennials has been considerable. The reward came in 1916 when the National Officers accepted the invitation to meet in Philadelphia.*

LITERARY EXERCISES AND DINNERS.

The minutes of June 11, 1896, tell an almost tragic story of the efforts of the Literary Committee to arrange for literary exercises during the year just closed. The Committee had been indefatigable in its efforts to secure an orator, but Bishop Potter, President Schurman of Cornell, President Gilman of Johns Hopkins, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, Charles Dudley Warner, Horace Howard Furness, and other illustrious Phi Beta Kappas had found it impossible to accept the invitation of the young and struggling chapter, so that the year passed without the much-desired event. Despite the discouragement of these beginnings, the Delta Chapter has since 1898 had to its credit a most brilliant record of orators and poets. In the early spring of 1898, a "mid-winter meeting," as it was called, was held, which was, in effect, the first of a long, eminent series of notable literary exercises conducted under the auspices of this chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. It is recorded that Professor Morris Jastrow, Jr., delivered an address on "The Babylonian Account of the Deluge." In the month of June, of the same year, 1898, the Chapter assembled to listen to the first formal Phi Beta Kappa oration, delivered by George Wharton Pepper, Esq., who spoke on the subject, "Our National Constitution as Related to National Growth." In these distinguished addresses the successive literary committees, which had been active since 1894, finally beheld the first fruits of their labor. Since this year of 1898 the Literary Committee, which in 1901 came to be called the Executive Committee, has not left a year without its important contribution to the local academic life. The orators have been: Walter George Smith, Esq., 1899; Dwight M. Lowrey, Esq., 1900; Dr. Charles P. G. Scott, 1901; Professor F. E. Schelling, 1902; Rev. Jesse Y. Burk, 1903; Professor Martin Grove Brumbaugh, 1904; Professor William Berryman Scott, 1905; Professor Clarence G. Child, 1906; Professor John L. Stewart, 1907; Hon. Judge Mayer Sulzberger, 1908; Professor H. C. Richards, 1909; Judge John M. Gest, 1910; Professor G. E. Fisher, 1911; Professor Raymond MacDonald Alden, 1912; Professor James Alan Montgomery, 1913. In 1913 it was decided to hold these literary exercises in the future in the month of May, instead of in June during Commencement Week, and Professor Robert Mark Wenley was the orator on May Day of 1914. In 1915 Dr. J. A. Brashear appeared before the Society and in 1916, President John H. Finley. In 1904 Sigma Xi joined hands with Phi Beta Kappa in the conduct of these annual literary exercises and it has become the custom for the societies to elect the orator alternately from year to year. These orations have at times, though not regularly, been followed by poems and many of these Phi Beta Kappa orations and poems have appeared in print, that of Professor Schelling, "Humanities Gone and to Come," appearing in the volume of "Representative Phi Beta Kappa Orations," edited by Professor Clark S. Northup. The poets who have read before our chapter are: Harrison S. Morris, 1899; John Hall Ingham, 1900; Ernest Lacy, 1901; Francis Howard Williams, 1902; Professor Hugh A. Clarke, 1903; Henry Hanby Hay, 1910; C. Wharton Stork, 1912; Oliver Huckel, 1914; Alfred Noyes, 1916.

By 1898 the Chapter was thoroughly organized and its work brought into affiliation not only with the College and its alumni, but also in communication with Phi Beta Kappas, graduates of other Universities. The "mid-winter" meetings with addresses and social features, the annual June literary exercises, followed by the annual business session, the annual election of undergraduates in February constituted the extent of the chapter's work and very much determined the character of its functioning for some years. In 1901 an innovation in the form of a dinner superseded the former mid-winter meetings. This dinner has remained an important factor in the social intellectual gatherings of the chapter and has gradually grown in popularity, in influence and in importance. At the first dinner, held at the University Club, the recently elected members from the Senior and Junior classes were guests of the chapter, as they always have been since the inception of the custom. The minutes record the presence of many alumni of other colleges at the first dinner, and this important means of establishing friendly intercollegiate relations has been cherished through the succeeding years. There were a number of after-dinner speeches at this first Phi Beta Kappa dinner at Pennsylvania,—the following program delighting the eighty guests who were gathered together :

The University, Provost C. C. Harrison.

The New Members, T. F. Cadwalader, Penna. '01.

Harvard, Walter C. Douglas, Jr.

Yale, S. Davis Page.

Vermont, John H. Converse.

Amherst, Talcott Williams.

Lafayette, Dr. C. P. G. Scott.

Sigma Xi, William McClellan.

In the records of the subsequent dinners, with their after-dinner speeches (no less than in the records of the June literary exercises), one can read the history of the College and of the University; all of the great disciplines of the expanding curricula became the themes of the after-dinner speakers; one sees reflections of national movements and observes the influence of world events; Phi Beta Kappa's place in education and in the world remained a favorite theme. Guests of Harvard, Yale, Swarthmore, Haverford and Princeton have been conspicuous at these gatherings and it is pleasant to follow this amiable history of rivalries of men, institutions, and interests, secular, scholarly, and theological become amicable under the humanizing influence of Phi Beta Kappa. The last of these dinners, the sixteenth, held in March of 1916,* was attended by a record attendance of 150 and a "symposium of wit and wisdom" followed the dinner. Fourteen speakers participated in this remarkable exposition of humor and seriousness that touched upon all the interests of life.

NECROLOGY.

In the minutes of the June meeting of 1896, the following note is included: "At this meeting of the chapter the death of the Rev. William Henry Furness, D.D., charter member and president of the chapter, was announced by the chair. For longer than an ordinary lifetime, Dr. Furness has stood before this community not only as a teacher of righteousness and noble living, but as a shining example of a blameless and noble life. His deep piety, his sound learning, and his broad culture were consecrated to the welfare and uplifting of his fellow men, and none were beyond the pale of his sympathies. A graduate of Harvard College, he there worthily attained the honor of fellowship in our Fraternity, and we count it a happy omen that he was one of those through whom its corporate life was transmitted to this chapter, and that his venerable form was the first to occupy the presidential chair." Among the lamented dead who have gone ad majores appear the names of Stephen Winchester Dana, who died in 1910, one of the charter members, to whom this chapter of Phi Beta Kappa remains in everlasting debt; of Professor William A. Lamberton, who died in 1910, for eight years vice-president and for three years president of the chapter, a man of singular broad-mindedness and of intense devotion, who gave of his scholarship and of his emotional life to the upbuilding of the character of this chapter as part of the institution he loved so deeply; of Professor Thomas Harrison Montgomery, Jr., who died in 1912, and whose name remains linked in affectionate remembrance with all Phi Beta Kappa aspirations; of Dr. Horace Howard Furness, 1912; of Dr. Horace Jayne, 1913; of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, 1914, all of whom added to the growing distinction and left to the corporate life of the chapter the fragrance of their memories; and of Frank McM. Breniser, Pennsylvania 1913, who died in 1916, dearly beloved for the simple sincerity of his nature that might well remain the inspiration of all Phi Beta Kappa endeavor.

VARIA MEMORABILIA.

In 1902 the Constitution of the Delta Chapter was printed with a list of its members. It is the intention of the chapter to carry out a plan agitated since 1911 and publish a new catalogue of members in 1917,—marking the twenty-fifth anniversary,—including also the Constitution with amendments, lists of orators and poets, lists of officers, and other data that properly belong to a handbook. For a number of years a gracious custom was maintained of exchanging courtesies with the Harvard Chapter whereby an undergraduate represented this chapter at the annual dinner of the Harvard Chapter, while Harvard gave us the pleasure of reciprocating this hospitality. Analogous relations are maintained with the Swarthmore and Haverford chapters, forming one more link of friendship between the three institutions that have so much in common in the educational problems and perplexities of the State. The Delta Chapter has at times appeared with an insert in "The Record," the senior publication of the College, and thus has come more prominently before the student mind. Dean Arthur Hobson Quinn has established the custom of including Phi Beta Kappa in a mention of fraternities in the college fasciculus and of publishing the names of the newly-elected men. In 1912 a Nominating Committee was created, whose function it is to consider all the available data bearing upon the eligibility of prospective undergraduate candidates and report their findings to the electoral body, making recommendations for election. The value of such a nominating committee has been recognized as very great and no subsequent election has been held without the previous action and report of this committee, chosen each year by the president of the chapter. This simplifies the problems of election for the electoral body, which consists of those members of Phi Beta Kappa who are connected with the Faculty, and leads to fairer and better results. Since 1910 the electoral body has been guided by the following criteria:

- (1) Excellence of scholarship as determined by standing.
- (2) Promise and indication of creative ability as shown by scholastic work.
- (3) The breadth and culture of the studies pursued.
- (4) The use made of them in the intellectual activities of College life.

For a year, a change in the whole method of electing undergraduates has been discussed and this agitation is likely to lead to some important changes; but the present scheme of electing from the senior class in October and from the senior and junior classes in February is likely to remain, permanently, as affording the greatest satisfaction. By this method there result three elections from each graduating class, i. e., the first, from the junior class in February, and the two subsequent elections from the same class as a senior class in the October and February following. No worthy candidates are apt to escape observation under this method. The revised constitution permits the election of one-fifteenth from the Junior class and "the total number elected from any one class shall not exceed one-sixth of those eligible."

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS.

The year 1913 marked an epoch in the local history. The propitious time had arrived for a great expansion and many changes were made, all looking toward a greater vitalization of Phi Beta Kappa in the College and in the University and the creation of an influence as great and as deep as possible. The Club of graduate and undergraduate Phi Beta Kappas upon the campus was conceived in a spirit of good will; this Club now has a regular program of meetings mapped out for it, bringing the men into intimate fellowship with one another and into closer contact with members of the Faculty. The Club is allowed to make suggestions to the Nominating Committee before the election of new members into Phi Beta Kappa and it is the earnest hope of all of those who have fathered this organization that it will develop into one of the best and richest influences on the campus. In time the Phi Beta Kappa Club will, mayhap, have a home of its own which would properly become the center of all Phi Beta Kappa interests and hold the library of a great amount of Phi Beta Kappa literature now in the keeping of the secretary. The membership of this organization reflects the cosmopolitan character of the student body at large and includes men of widely different social experiences, of different lands, and of different racial predilections. This very heterogeneity of the Club constitutes its chief charm and holds the possibility and carries the need of generosity which bids fair to break artificial barriers and end in strong attachments. Newly elected undergraduates in the college now receive certificates of membership and are duly initiated. These initiations are held either in college buildings or in private homes; the social aspect of these ceremonies and the cordial good will attending them make for one more bond between Phi Beta Kappas and tend to create a reality out of an unsubstantial vague idealism. In 1915 the Alumni Association of Philadelphia was organized. With a present membership of over two hundred and with two years of successful activity, this association is already planning to establish a Phi Beta Kappa fellowship. At the present time three meetings are held annually under the auspices of the Association, a formal meeting in December, as near the fifth as possible, with literary exercises to which all Phi Beta Kappas in the city and vicinity are invited, informal meetings in the spring and in the fall at which the old-time "jollity and mirth," come down to us from our parent chapter of William and Mary, prevail. The influence of the Association in the city will unquestionably become very great and Phi Beta Kappa will gain a prestige hardly possible through any other medium.

At the present time Phi Beta Kappa at Pennsylvania is on the way to great achievements of the heart and of the mind. With the early ideals and the present purposes of the Fraternity steadfastly in mind, the local chapter is becoming a powerful directing force toward all that is best in the world of literary and spiritual endeavor. This sketch of the chapter's history would be incomplete without giving due credit to the present administration, for in Provost Smith, Vice-Provost Penniman and Dean Quinn Phi Beta Kappa has three very warm friends whose unfailing interest is a bulwark of inestimable value. The number of other friends outside of our immediate faculty brotherhood is attested by a large correspondence; the secretary receives many letters of interested inquiry, of encouragement, of generous offers of financial help, of suggestions of many sorts, and these are the best evidence of a lively and genuine interest in the welfare of the chapter committed to high purposes. The names of Dr. J. G. Rosengarten and Mr. Morris L. Clothier inevitably come to mind, although neither of these friendly benefactors would claim more credit for themselves than they would ungrudgingly give to the host of others who by their presence at dinners, at literary exercises, at Phi Beta Kappa elections and other functions, or by co-operation of one sort or another, are all contributing to the reality of a Phi Beta Kappa spirit and to the strength of a Phi Beta Kappa union. This chapter takes pride in the election by the recent Council of Professor Felix E. Schelling to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa Senate. It may safely be said that the watchword of Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Pennsylvania is "service,"—unselfish service to our membership, enthusiastic service to scholarship, devoted service to the College and to the University.

CONSTITUTION OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DELTA CHAPTER

PREAMBLE.

The object of this Society is the promotion of literature and friendly intercourse among scholars. Its name is Phi Beta Kappa; its motto, Φιλοσοφία Βίου Κυβερνήτης, is intended to indicate that Philosophy (which is understood to include religion as well as ethics) is worthy of cultivation as the guide of life. The following articles are declared to be the laws of this Society, and shall remain in force until the same are expressly repealed:

ARTICLE I.

The Society shall consist of Honorary, Graduate and Undergraduate members, chosen as hereinafter provided. The Honorary and Graduate members shall constitute the Society at large, and shall have in their hands the general management of the Society, with the power of delegating authority. No injunction of secrecy as to its proceedings shall be imposed and no ceremonies of initiation shall be required at the admission of members.

ARTICLE II.

The following are eligible to honorary membership: (1) graduates of the University of Pennsylvania, of at least five years' standing, whose work since graduation may entitle them to such honor; (2) any person of distinction in letters, science or education, provided he be not a graduate of any University or College where there is a Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Not more than three honorary members shall be chosen in any one year after Commencement Day of the year 1893. (this Constitution having been adopted in February, 1893).

ARTICLE III.

Any three members of the Society at large may, at any time during the year, until thirty days before the annual business meeting, jointly send to the Secretary the names of any persons whom they may desire to recommend for admission as Honorary members. The Secretary shall then send to each member of the Society at large a list of persons so recommended, and from those the elections shall be made in the following manner: The voting shall be by ballot at the annual business meeting and a favorable vote of three-fourths of the members present shall be necessary for election. Each member present shall deposit a ballot containing not more than three names. Each one of the three persons receiving the largest number of ballots shall be declared elected, provided he shall have received a three-fourths vote of the members present. If any of these three shall not have received a three-fourths vote, a second ballot shall be taken, in which such name or names only shall be voted for, and this ballot shall be final.

ARTICLE IV.

Graduate members shall consist of: (1) those Alumni of the University of Pennsylvania who are elected to membership, upon the basis of their scholarly record as undergraduates, until Commencement Day of the year 1893; (2) those who shall have been elected before graduation, according to the provisions of Articles V-VII. After Commencement Day of the year 1893 graduates shall be eligible only to Honorary membership, according to the provisions of Articles II and III.

ARTICLE V.

The following shall be eligible to election as Undergraduate members: Members of the Junior and Senior classes in the College Department who are pursuing liberal courses of study. Only regular students in full standing in their classes who, at the time of the election, shall have been students in the College Department for at least two years shall be eligible. The last provision may be waived by a unanimous vote of the electing members in a case of exceptional merit.

ARTICLE VI.

High scholarship with a generally good character shall be the only ground of electing Undergraduates into the Society. Not more than three Juniors and five Seniors shall be elected in any one year.

ARTICLE VII.

Undergraduate members shall be chosen by ballot by those members of the Society who are connected with the Faculty, at a meeting of such members to be called by the Secretary in the month of February. A favorable three-fourths vote of all the members present shall be necessary for the election of each Undergraduate member.

ARTICLE VIII.

The Secretary shall at once inform each new member of his election and shall invite him to sign the Constitution at a time and place to be designated by the President of the Society. Each new member shall at that time pay to the Treasurer a fee of two dollars and shall receive from the President a Certificate of Membership entitling him to all the privileges granted by the Constitution.

ARTICLE IX.

Any member of Phi Beta Kappa, at any time resident in Philadelphia or vicinity, may, during such residence, receive the usual courtesies from the Delta Chapter. Those members who are at any time connected with the Faculty of the University of Pennsylvania shall be considered members of the Society at large and shall be entitled to all the privileges granted to such members by the Constitution.

ARTICLE X.

The annual business meeting of the Society at large shall be held at 4.30 o'clock P. M. on Thursday of Commencement week. At the business meeting there shall be chosen by ballot, from the members of the Society at large, a President, a Vice-President, and a Secretary, who shall also discharge the duties of Treasurer. Two Marshals shall be annually chosen by the undergraduate members from their own number.

ARTICLE XI.

A literary committee, composed of six persons, of whom the officers shall be three, shall be appointed at every annual meeting, whose duty it shall be to make all necessary arrangements for the ensuing celebration.

ARTICLE XII.

The Society shall never officially request a copy for the press of any performance delivered before them.

ARTICLE XIII.

This Chapter shall send a delegation to represent it at each National Council of the United Chapters, shall contribute its equal part to the financial support of the United Chapters and shall conform to the Constitution of the United Chapters, and all lawful requirements of the National Council.

ARTICLE XIV.

No change shall be made in the Constitution and laws of the Society except at the annual business meeting, or at a special meeting to which the annual business meeting shall specially refer the subject.' A three-fourths vote of all members present shall be necessary for each change.

 AMENDMENTS. JUNE 13, 1906.

ARTICLE II.

To read as follows: The following are eligible to honorary membership: (1) Graduates of the University of Pennsylvania of at least five years' standing whose work since graduation may entitle them to such honor; (2) Any person of distinction in letters, science or education, provided that, if he be a graduate of any University or College where there is a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, his election to membership in this chapter shall first be approved by the chapter of his university or college. Not more than five honorary members shall be chosen in any one year after Commencement Day of the year 1893 (this Constitution having been adopted in February, 1893).

ARTICLE III.

To substitute the word "five" for "three" whenever the latter word occurs in Article III.

 AMENDMENTS. JUNE 17, 1908.

ARTICLE II.

To read as follows: The following shall be eligible to honorary membership: (1) Graduates of the University of Pennsylvania, of at least five years' standing, whose work since graduation may entitle them to such honor; (2) Members of the Faculty of the University of Pennsylvania; (3) Other persons of distinction in letters, science or education, provided that in the case of a graduate of a University or College where a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa exists, the secretary first communicate with such chapter and obtain if possible an expression of its views. Not more than five honorary members shall be chosen in any one year after Commencement Day of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three (this Constitution having been adopted in February of that year).

ARTICLE III.

To amend the first sentence by substituting the word three for the word five.

ARTICLE X.

To amend the first sentence so as to read: The annual business meeting of the Society-at-large shall be held during Commencement week.

AMENDMENT. JUNE 16, 1909.

ARTICLE VI.

To amend the last sentence so as to read: Not more than one-fifteenth of the eligible Juniors shall be elected in any year, and the total number elected from any one class shall not exceed one-sixth of those eligible.

AMENDMENT. JUNE 19, 1912.

ARTICLE VII.

“That Article VII of the Constitution be amended so as to strike out the words ‘in the month of February’ and to insert the sentence "The meeting for the election of Seniors shall be held in October and that for the election of Juniors in February.'"

AMENDMENTS. JUNE 15, 1914.

ARTICLE VIII.

To amend so as to read: "a fee of three dollars."

To amend by omission of last phrase "entitling him to all the privileges granted by the Constitution" and substitution of: (1) on this occasion the ritual of induction shall be carried out and until that time the members-elect are not entitled to the privileges of membership; (2) members-elect who are unable to be present at their regular meeting for induction may be inducted at a later meeting; (3) keys, delivered by the jeweler to the Secretary, shall be distributed to the candidates just after the signing of the roll-book.

ARTICLE X.

To amend amendment of June 17, 1908, so as to read: the annual business meeting of the Society-at-large shall be held in the month of March at a time to be designated by the President and to coincide with a ceremony of induction of newly elected members.

ARTICLE VII.

To amend amendment of June 19, 1912, so as to read: the meeting for the election of Seniors shall be held in October, with another election in February, and the meeting for the election of Juniors shall also be held at the same time, in February.

ARTICLE VIII.

Amend phrase "two dollars" to read "three dollars."

Dormitories—Memorial Tower

AMENDMENTS. MARCH 17, 1916.

ARTICLE II.

"It is the sense of this meeting that this Chapter abide in the future by the Constitution of the United Chapters in the matter of elections to Honorary Membership and that the Executive Committee act in accord with recommendations of the National Council."

ARTICLE III.

"That the Executive Committee in the future act on all names proposed for election to Honorary Membership and report recommendations for election."

AMENDMENTS. MARCH 23, 1917.

ARTICLE VII.

(First sentence.) Election of undergraduates shall rest with a board of electors representing as far as possible every department in the College; each department shall be represented on this board by at least one representative for every four Phi Beta Kappa members (or fraction thereof) within that department; each department shall be invited to choose its own qualified representatives but if such selection is not made within a reasonable time-limit, the Secretary shall be empowered to make the necessary appointments; the departments shall be asked to make recommendations about eligible students and submit such recommendations to the electoral body; the Phi Beta Kappa Club shall be asked to make suggestions about eligible candidates and give records of outside activities of such candidates.

Annual dues of one dollar shall be collected by the Treasurer, from the members of the Chapter.
